This documentary, which is the recipient of nine film festival awards, chronicles the birth of a new movement among pediatricians, therapists, educators and communities using cutting-edge brain science to disrupt cycles of violence, addiction and disease.

By understanding what Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) are and how they affect us, we can work toward implementing "trauma-informed" policies and practices in our homes and communities. In this way, Randolph County can realize drastic reductions in rates of high-school drop-outs, teen pregnancy, youth suicide and domestic violence, as well as increased health outcomes and longevity.

This event is not appropriate for children younger than 16.
