Randolph Partnership for Child Executive Director Lisa Hayworth Joins Randolph Community College Board of Trustees

Asheboro, N.C. (July 26, 2023) — Randolph Community College inducted Randolph Partnership for Children's (RCP) Executive Director Lisa Hayworth into the Board of Trustees. Hayworth will represent the Randolph County School System, strengthening the partnership between the organizations.

On Thursday, July 20, 2023, the swearing-in ceremony took place at the beginning of the Randolph Community College Board of Trustees meeting. This appointment reflects Hayworth's leadership and dedication to supporting education in the community.

As the RPC Executive Director, Hayworth has been instrumental in helping young children in the community succeed in school and life. She has led the organization to create programs and initiatives that support children and their families.

"I am honored to join the Board of Trustees of Randolph Community College," said Hayworth. "I am passionate about education and dedicated to fostering strong connections between our educational institutions and the community. I look forward to collaborating with fellow trustees, college leadership, and the community to promote excellence in education and contribute to the growth and success of Randolph County."

Hayworth's appointment highlights the commitment of RPC to strong families with well-prepared children. With her leadership, the organization will continue to build partnerships and advocate for programs and policies that benefit children and families.
